

Opting Out of Public Records and Data Aggregators

- ◆ Conduct research to see what records each data aggregator has collected about you and your loved ones.
- ◆ Some data aggregators may have information about you and your family under multiple listings; you may need to repeat the removal process described below for each listing.
- ◆ Have ALL the required information prepared before you begin the removal process. Also, follow ALL necessary steps to complete the removal process; you may need to mail or fax information to the aggregator.
- ◆ Understand that incorrect information may be a good thing and that it might not be necessary to “fix”.
- ◆ Do not think removing your information from certain data aggregators will suppress everything that’s available about you. Information in data aggregators about family member and associates may still contain information about you.
- ◆ Don’t think you have to delete/suppress all your information on these sites. Remember, some information on data aggregator sites is “normal” since it is collected from places such as Public Records and Credit Bureaus.
- ◆ Do not remove information on other family members. If there is information that you believe is harmful to you, contact your family member and help them to go through the removal process.

Search for your name, names of family members, email addresses, phone numbers, home addresses, and social media usernames using some of the data aggregator links below. Once you have reviewed your information and identified what needs to be removed (if any), you should record your findings to facilitate the removal process. Please note, the information presented here about how to remove personal details from data aggregators is subject to change. Opting out will not remove your information indefinitely.
